

Question and Answer Session – February 3, 2011

Once again, the Greely Gardeners Group were treated to a very informative evening with Joan and Peter Knippel who provided members with a chance to get the answers to those puzzling questions which they have been saving since we last invited Joan and Peter to speak with us.

We were reminded that all the snow that has fallen on our gardens this past week is a good thing; that sometimes we have to just get rid of a plant that doesn't perform as it should or continually harbours insect infestations; that with changes in our climate and in environmental legislation, we may need to adjust our expectations for our lawns; and that in less than three months, we will be back working in our gardens!
