

Christmas Pot-Luck Dinner – December 3, 2014

At the Greely Gardeners Group Christmas Pot-Luck Dinner our members once again displayed their culinary talents, with 73 members and their guests attending an evening of seasonal delight.

For many of the Executive Committee Members, preparations for the evening began long before the event. This was especially true for Lee and Phyllis Nickerson who designed and constructed the table centre pieces. The photo below shows Lee with the herd of reindeer that he made; each of the reindeer was used in a table decoration. Many of the Executive Committee and other helpers came together at the Nickerson home the weekend before the dinner to assemble the place settings. It has become somewhat of a traditional get-together.

Everything came together very well on the evening when the community centre room was transformed by many willing hands into a Christmas party setting.

Thanks to everyone who brought food and thanks to all who helped set up before the event and clean up afterwards. Many of those attending went home with draw prizes or prizes from winning one of the games played. At minimum everyone was able to take home their place setting and judging from the e-mails that were received after the event, a very good time was had by all.

We are not only gardeners, but we know how to cook and have a good time as well!
